There should be no conflict of interest. The only dealings with this job that I have with the county are my occasionally giving information to members of the library system about Census surveys, trainings on the use of Census data, and employment opportunities, and my contacting the County Assessor's office from time to time to determine contact information for the owners of property at certain addresses.

I declare under criminal penalty under the law of Utah that the foregoing is true and correct.

I volunteer to read Juvenile Fiction chapter books through the year and meet up twice a year to finalize the award nominations. It takes a little time, but I think it's beneficial to the Library as it improves my Reader's Advisory abilities and the Beehive Books program is very popular here.

I am a member of the poetry committee for CLAU. That means I find books to recommend for the poetry long list, and collect votes for the short list. I don't know that there is a potential conflict of interest. Although, sometimes I read a book that the library doesn't own, that I purchased on my own, or borrowed from another library, and recommend that our library also purchase it.

However, I do that anyway. It's one of the core jobs of a librarian to be on the look out for interesting new books to add to the collection.

Elected vice-chair/incoming chair of the Mentoring and Networking Roundtable.

The purpose of the Mentoring and Networking Roundtable is to promote the development of librarianship, to serve as a channel of communication among library members, and to promote and facilitate discussion of issues that bring a new or fresh perspective to librarianship, libraries, or librarians. We organize regular meetups, facilitate conversations and help build connections amongst libraries and librarians throughout the State of Utah.

I will also be presenting at the Utah Library Association Annual Conference in May 2024.
