Re: Parks and Recreation Advisory Board Nominees

Dear Mayor Wilson,

Salt Lake County Parks & Recreation respectfully requests your consideration of the following nominees for the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board:

Robynn Masters
Danny Schoenfeld
John Warnas

Robynn will represent District 1, is active outdoors, provides an inner-city bike, trails, and transportation perspective, and has previous recreation experience as the director of Steiner Aquatic.

District 6 nominee is Danny, and he provides a multi-generational user perspective, is passionate about accessibility, actively golfs throughout the county, has participated in city planning efforts, and his data expertise will be valuable in utilization and finance considerations.

John represents District 2, is an active user of our amenities, an advocate of open space, is passionate about fitness, has experience as a planning commissioner, and has lived experience in the westside (north and south) of the valley.

Parks & Recreation went through a thoughtful process to recruit and select these board nominees. Social media and email marketing were used to solicit board applications and we worked with several current Advisory Board members to interview applicants. Final candidates were prioritized based on district needs. These three individuals rose to the top of our vetting process because they best represent the needs of their district, their skills align with our mission and because of their investment in and knowledge of their respective districts/communities.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Respectfully,
Martin Jensen

I currently reside in South Jordan, Utah with my wife Jennifer and daughters Sophia and Chloe.

I have been community-minded from a very young age. I loved volunteering in the community to make the place I live, the best it can be. I served for many years as a committee member for WestFest (West Valley City's Annual Celebration), including a few terms as Chairman. I have also enjoyed serving with the West Valley City Arts Council, Days of 47 volunteer, and served on committees for the American Cancer Society. Most recently, I served as a Planning Commissioner for the City of Taylorsville. As I travel out of the state, I love to look at other communities offering parks and recreation and am always amazed at what innovative ideas different places create. I find myself looking at trails and paths and see how they connect to the communities to offer cohesive movement from place to place while allowing physical activity.
