Qualifications

Please tell us about yourself.

I am an avid learner and I'm currently taking an online course in philosophy and learning German. I am a mom of two Toddlers and we recently accomplished our goal to spend 1000 hours outside in one year! I love trying new and challenging things and be an active participant in my community. I currently work for Bluffdale city in their legal department and coach Track and Field and Cedar Valley High School.

Why are you interested in serving on a board or commission?

I have attended city council and planning commission meetings weekly for the past two years. Seeing how crucial these meetings are for the functioning of the city and benefit of citizens has made me want to serve and help my community. I feel that these boards are essential. I use the county's parks and other recreation amenities almost daily which is why I chose to volunteer for this board specifically.

What education, work experience, or volunteer experience do you have that applies to the board you are applying for?

1. Conservation Expertise: My academic background in biology, coupled with my work at the Jordan Valley Conservation Garden Park, provides me with a solid foundation in conservation. This knowledge is crucial for making decisions that balance recreational activities with environmental sustainability and the preservation of natural habitats. 2. Educational and Coaching Background: My experience as an outdoor educator and track coach, working with both preschoolers and teenagers, gives you insights into the diverse needs and preferences of different age groups. This is valuable for making recommendations on recreational programs and facilities that cater to a wide range of community members. 3. Community Engagement: My involvement in a weekly mom and child hiking group and my role as an emergency preparedness coordinator for Bluffdale City demonstrate a strong connection to the community. This firsthand experience with community needs and interests is vital for understanding what residents value in their parks and recreation facilities. 4. Regular Trail User and Avid Runner: As someone who uses trails daily for exercise, I have a unique perspective on the practical aspects of recreational facilities. My insights into the usability, safety, and maintenance of these spaces are valuable for ensuring that the parks meet the needs of active individuals and families. 5. City Government Involvement: My attendance at city council and planning commission meetings, coupled with insights gained from a family member who is a public work director, provides me with a deep understanding of the inner workings of local government. This knowledge is crucial for navigating bureaucratic processes, advocating for park and recreation initiatives, and understanding the financial considerations involved. 6. Race Coordination Experience: Organizing events requires logistical and organizational skills, which are transferable to the planning and execution of recreational programs and activities within the parks and other facilities. 7. Emergency Preparedness Experience: My role as an emergency preparedness coordinator gives me a unique perspective on safety and risk management. This is crucial for ensuring that parks and recreational spaces are not only enjoyable but also safe for the community. 8. Understanding of Board Dynamics: My attendance at city council and planning commission meetings has provided me with insights into the dynamics of board meetings. This experience can be beneficial for fostering effective communication and collaboration within the park and recreation board.

What unique perspectives could you bring to the board?

My multifaceted background will allow me to contribute a holistic perspective from ecological, recreational, community and administrative aspects of park and recreation management.
