Qualifications

Please tell us about yourself.

I am a public health profession, (MPH, currently enrolled in a DrPH program with anticipated completion in 2021), with more than 15 years' experience working with minority and low-resource communities. For eight years, I have lead global health programs for the U.S. National Institutes of Health/National Cancer Institute, managing a team who evaluates research funding investments and facilitates evidence-based policies and programming in cancer in low- and middle-income countries. While my work has been primarily focused at the national and international levels, I am a born-and-raised Utahn, and have always considered the Salt Lake City home. In 2015, I was able to design a remote position for the NIH that allowed me to relocate to Salt Lake County after more than 15 years in Washinton, DC. Many of the health issues facing residents in Salt Lake are things I have worked on throught my career in public health: tobacco control, cancer control and prevention, immunizations, access to health services for populations including minority communities, immigrant communities, etc.

Why are you interested in serving on a board or commission?

My background in health policy, complex health systems, and working in low--resource settings are unique perspectives that will add to the diversity and complexion of the Salt Lake County Health Board. I am eager to put my expertise in public health to work here at home.

What education, work experience, or volunteer experience do you have that applies to the board you are applying for?

My background is primarily in population-based public health policies and systems that can impact morbidity and mortality broadly.

What unique perspectives could you bring to the board?

LGBT Community representation.
